Yolo's 'serial arsonist' convicted

A "serial arsonist" responsible for a number of wildfires in western Yolo County in 2006 was convicted on Oct. 29 in Yolo County Court.

Robert Eric Eason, 39, was found guilty of 12 counts of felony arson to wildland, and two felony counts of possession of an incendiary device, reported the office of District Attorney Jeff Reisig.

The D.A.'s office released a statement expressing gratitude to various investigating agencies who helped "remove a dangerous serial arsonist from our community." The statement included a comment from Ernie Loveless, Unit Chief of CAL FIRE (state Department of Forestry and Fire Protection):

"This is one of the most complex arson investigation cases CAL FIRE has undertaken," said Loveless. "Seventy officers from five agencies dedicated thousands of hours to this case which has spanned the course of over three years."

One dog found, one still sought

The dog involved in a Southport biting incident on Oct. 28 is still being sought, said Steve Wharton of the Yolo County Health Department last week. The department hopes to find the animal and verify that it doesn't have rabies so that the man who was bitten does not have to undergo rabies treatment.

The dog bit a man at about 7:20 a.m. near Half Moon Bay Circle and Maui Street on that day. The owner was not present. The dog was described as a "possible Spaniel mix," with black and white coloring, with curly hair and floppy ears. It was wearing a collar and one of its ears may have been injured.

Anyone with information may call the Health Department at (530) 666-8646 (Monday through Friday from 8-5) or Yolo County Animal Services at (530) 668-5287. Callers may remain anonymous.

A dog involved in an earlier biting incident has been found and cleared of rabies. That incident occurred when a "pit bull/Labrador mix" bit a boy at Bridgeway Island Park on Oct. 6. The animal has passed quarantine.

"It was released on the 17th, alive and healthy," said Wharton. "The victim was not exposed to rabies."

Parks department ups the ante

Big recreation center overlaps facilities with new high school

News-Ledger Editor

It's going to be one of the biggest and flashiest city projects yet.

The City of West Sacramento is nearly done with a recreation complex at the site of the new high school, near Jefferson Boulevard and Linden Road in Southport. The facilities will range from a strength-training room to basketball courts to child-operated water fountains installed in a recreation pool. And while some of the facilities will be shared with the high school and Washington Unified School District, others will be operated totally by the city.

"Right now, the project cost is hovering at about $16 million," parks director Bob Johnston told the News-Ledger in August.

For joint facilities such as a 'competition' pool measuring 30 meters by 25 yards (and deep enough for a possible River City High School water polo team) the two parties will split the costs. Likewise for the "auxiliary gym," which is smaller than the gym built solely by RCHS.

"The smaller auxiliary gym will be paid for 50 percent by

Four convicted in Amtrak assault

Four of the five defendants on trial for assaulting an Amtrak crew in a notorious West Sacramento incident in 2006 were convicted of various felonies on Thursday in Yolo County court.

The five were alleged members of the Broderick Boys gang.

According to the office of Yolo County District Attorney Jeff Reisig, the group had been drinking during the evening. When they ran out of alcohol, they stole five cases of beer from Lighthouse Market in Broderick and took the beer across the railroad tracks. One of the defendants stood on the tracks as the Amtrak train approached at 10:30 p.m., causing it to slow, and another threw a rock at the engineer, hitting him in the head. When the engineer got off the train, said Reisig, two of the defendants started pelting him with rocks and a third came up behind the engineer with a rock.

The engineer asked him if he was going to punch him, said Reisig, and when the suspect didn't reply and kept approaching, the engineer "fearing for his safety and the safety of the passengers and crew, punched the suspect in the face."

The conductor then came off the train, trying to disburse the defendants with a fire extinguisher. But the assailants surrounded the pair, hitting them with rocks, the extinguisher, and a bottle of vodka. One of them unsuccessfully demanded the engineer's wallet and cell phone, said the D.A.'s office.

The sentencing is set for Dec. 15 in the court of Judge Timothy Fall.

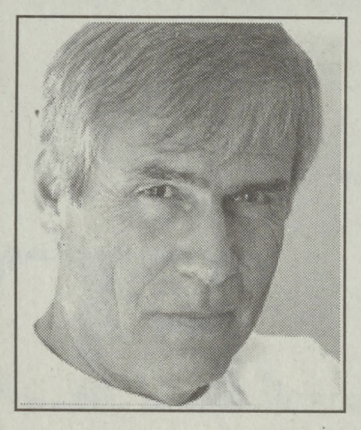
Convicted were: Austen Nunes, 19; Paliton Nunes, 20; and Orlando Ramos, 16, of West Sacramento. The three were convicted of 11 felony counts including attempted manslaughter, as well as a pair of misdemeanor crimes. Nunes was also convicted of attempted robbery. These three face maximum charges of 14-15 years in state prison.

Also convicted was Daniel Bonge, 19, of West Sacramento, who was found guilty of ten felony charges including assault with deadly weapons upon a train employee as well as two misdemeanor charges. He faces up to 13 years in prison.

Acquitted of all charges was West Sacramento's Robert Reynolds, 17.

So, where do you hide your hard-earned cash?

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

On days when I have nothing constructive to do at work, I sometimes go on the Internet just to browse around with the hope that I might stumble across a good idea for a future column. For instance, the other day I ran across a story entitled "Scientific study finds that drinking three cups of coffee a day can shrink a woman's breasts", which of course sounded like a pretty darn good column idea to me.

"Keep looking," said the owner/editor of the News-Ledger, Steve Marschke, when I told him about the new column idea I had just run across for next week.

"Why?"

"Well, other than all the obvious reasons, it also breaks the first rule of column writing."

"Which is?"

"That you should always try to write about a subject that most of our readers can identify with, something common to most everyone's experience, and since not every woman in West Sacramento is interested in having smaller breasts, it's my opinion that you've got yourself a pretty lousy column idea there."

"But most every woman in West Sacramento drinks coffee," I quickly reminded Steve, looking for an angle to salvage my new column idea.

"Well, that may be true, but don't forget that half of our readers are men. Now, if your story about smaller breasts had also said something about what might get smaller on a man if he drank three cups of coffee a day, then you might have yourself a pretty interesting new column there, but as things stand now, keep looking!"

So, having struck out in the "health news" area, I turned my attention to what the Internet had to say about "personal finance", figuring that everyone would be especially interested in that subject nowadays, and I quickly came across something which I was absolutely sure would make a great column.

"Hey, Steve," I yelled out through the open door which separates our two offices, "how about this for a good column idea – the crazy places where people like to hide their money?"

"Hey, now that's not bad," answered Steve. "With people everywhere worried about their own banks going out of business, I bet more people than ever are just keeping their hard-earned money at home and hiding it under a mattress or something."

"That's exactly what this article says, and you wouldn't believe some of the places people use for hiding their money."

"Like what?"

"Well, this one lady hides her extra money in a tampon box, figuring that would be the last place her husband would ever look for his beer money. And here's another really good one – some guy puts dozens of hundred-dollar bills in a plastic bag and then hides it under the gravel of his fish aquarium, which is home to a half-dozen or so piranha fish, figuring that a thief wouldn't want anything to do with all those sharp teeth that piranha's have."

"That's pretty funny."

"Wanna hear some more?"

"Sure."

"Okay, here goes. Inside a curtain rod; inside a roll of toilet paper hidden in the back of a bathroom cabinet; at the bottom of a dirty clothes hamper; in envelopes taped to the back of furniture; in artificial plants; in an old vacuum cleaner that is never used; under a nailed down carpet in the bedroom; in a hollowed-out Bible; inside an old pair of smelly sneakers; in the pockets of old coats hanging in a closet; inside a child's teddy bear that can be easily opened and sewed back together again; in a mason jar buried in the backyard; under the cat-litter box; and here's a cute one – inside a piggy bank that this lady puts in her freezer because she thinks that's the perfect place to keep her cold-hard cash."

"Very funny!"

"And this one guy says he just puts all of his money under the mattress because his lazy wife is always in bed and he's pretty sure a thief wouldn't want anything to do with her. But do you wanna hear my favorite?"

"Sure."

"This one lady hides her money in one of the hundreds of purses she has in her big walk-in closet figuring that most criminals like to get in and out of a place they're robbing pretty fast and that it would probably take a thief most of a day to go through all her purses."

Anyway, after I had finished telling Steve a dozen or so more interesting places where people like to hide their spare money, I asked him where he likes to hide his.

"Well," said Steve, "I have on occasion left some extra money lying around in my underwear drawer. How about you?"

"I don't have any spare money, Steve. I work for the News-Ledger!"

GUEST COMMENTARY:

Challenging times for Yolo Co.

By Sharon Jensen, Yolo County Administrator

The bleak economic headlines are unrelenting. They're filled with panic-inducing words that give rise to urgent calls for action to prevent chaos. But though bad news tends to be amplified, in reality, many people are facing very difficult personal financial challenges as the fallout that started with the mortgage crisis has rippled through from Wall Street to Main Street.

For some, usually those working families on the lowest rungs of the economic ladder, recessions are life-changing events. Multiple jobs which were cobbled together to support a family disappear, and many seek assistance from the county for the first time. It may be in the form of food stamps, a needed trip to a medical clinic, or cash assistance to pay the rent for a single parent who's lost her job. Recessions also have a darker impact. As the economy sours, other stresses begin to take their toll on our community, and crime, domestic violence, child abuse and drug and alcohol abuse all tend to increase.

The county struggles during these periods too. In Yolo County, five of the six largest employers are government, representing nearly 20,000 jobs. Although there have not been significant government job losses in the county to date, our unemployment rate has increased by nearly 25% in one year. Yolo County's unemployment rate is currently 6.9%, which is under the statewide average of 7.5%, yet higher than the U.S. rate of 6.5%.

As complex as the economy may be, for our county government the equations are relatively simple. When the value of real estate goes down and people and businesses stop buying things (especially cars) we get less revenue to pay our bills and thus have to reduce our costs. In addition, we must deal with the State of California. But the old adage, "when the state gets a cold, the county gets pneumonia," may have to be re-written as the state seems to be developing its own case of double-pneumonia.

Next year, we are projecting the county will begin with at least an $18.5 million shortfall. Regrettably, that number will likely grow as the effects of a recessionary economy roll through the holiday retail season, and again when the Governor releases his proposed budget for 2009-10 on January 10th.

A shortfall of this proportion is unprecedented. There will be significant changes in the levels of service the county will be able to provide its residents. It cannot be otherwise. But it does not have to mean catastrophe. There are some opportunities for optimism. First, times of financial crisis are the incubators for ingenuity and innovation. We must examine all aspects of our programs, not simply the "how" they are provided, but also the "why." Second, we are in this together. Collaboration in a crisis means the difference between failure and survival. Our employees have already contributed over $1 million in voluntary time off (without pay) to reduce the size of our budget gap this year. Together with their labor representatives, we are working to jointly find solutions and innovations that will preserve our services and our workforce to the very best of our abilities.

So, while we know the next few months will be very difficult, and will challenge us all, we are committed to achieving the best possible outcomes available. Counties are the safety net for us all. We cannot fail.

Raider season ends; RCHS football bids farewell to a half-century at Gwinn Field

River City High School ended its history at the 'old' field on Friday with a 22-8 loss to Rio Linda. The Raiders ended their season with a 2-7 record overall, 1-4 in league play.

The Raiders have something to look forward to, though: a new field has been constructed for RCHS sports on the new campus, near Jefferson Boulevard and Linden Road in Southport. The field was nearly ready for play at the end of this season. It will be ready in plentyof time for 2009: the school's student body will pick up and move to the new campus during the upcoming winter break.

The River City junior varsity squad won their final game, 14-0.

The squad clipped Central Valley High 3-1 on Friday afternoon at home. That was the second round of playoff action for the Raiders.

They were scheduled to play next yesterday, against Ceres, for a third round of playffs.

Watch out for 'smash & grab,' says D.A.

Yolo County District Attorney Jeff Reisig reports an "alarming increase in theft cases involving unsuspecting victims who leave valuables on the seat of their cars or in the center console."

"'Smash and grabs', where burglars break your car window and steal valuables left in plain view, are on the rise," Reisig said in a press statement. "In one case, a man parked his car at the gym at 5 a.m. He returned to his car at 6 a.m. only to find shards of glass on the ground and in his car. The passenger side window had been smashed and his wallet and cell phone were gone. Please remember to lock your car doors and put all valuables including purses, wallets and cell phones in your trunk. It only takes 30 seconds for a criminal to ruin your day."

Stolen wallets, checkbooks, credit cards and Social Security cards can also provide information criminals can use to commit identity theft and fraud, he added.

Reisig suggests limiting the information you carry in your purse and wallet, and leaving home any extra cards, checkbooks and Social Security cards.

Celebrating those who help

Guest commentary from the Yolo Community Foundation

Yolo Community Foundation, a nonprofit organization, hosted the Yolo County Philanthropy Day Awards Thursday, November 13, 2008 at the Heidrick Ag History Center. Ten Yolo County Nonprofits participated. Thirty-seven awards were given.

The Yolo County Philanthropy Day Awards focus on the significant assistance individuals give to community-based organizations. The awards bring attention to the entire spectrum of services provided by the nonprofit community and to the profound impact philanthropy has on the fabric of society. These special awards focus on individuals who donate financial resources and time to enrich the community and the world in which we live.

Yolo Community Foundation (YCF) awarded Bob Lew and Marion Franck with Yolo County Philanthropy Awards. In 2001, the start-up YCF found a knowledgeable friend in Davis resident Bob Lew.

Bob and his wife Marion Franck became direct supporters when they created the Lew Franck Family Fund in 2006. Marion explains, "Through his job, Bob knew that community foundations are successful in other locations, and they do good work. We got involved because we'd like to see Yolo County's foundation thrive."

It's not surprising that one of their philanthropic interests is the conservation of rivers. Through the fund they established with YCF in 2006 they have been able to pursue several goals: to provide long-term benefit to the community where they raised their family and enjoy the outdoors, while involving their children in philanthropy. YCF is delighted to recognize the Lew-Franck family for their local loyalty and philanthropic commitment.

Yolo Community Foundation also awarded Eric Stille and the Stille Family of Nugget Markets for their many contributions to philanthropy in Yolo County. Nugget Markets have been a part of the Northern California community since 1926 and put a high value on being good neighbors, so they give back through their community giving programs. They make numerous donations to various local nonprofits throughout the year including their Best of the Barrel events. Over the past year, Nugget Markets has given to Hoes Down Harvest Festival, Davis Art Center, Street Smarts traffic safety campaign, West Sacramento Education Foundation Fund Drive, UC Davis Good Life Garden, Village Feasts in support of school gardens and organic-farm field trips, Backpacks for Kids, Davis and Woodland's Fourth of July Celebrations, Yolo CASA, American Cancer Society's Relay 4 Life, Yolo County Land Trust, Stroll Through History, and Davis Farm to School Connection. You know that good feeling you get when you give to a good cause? They love that feeling.

Ark Preschool, a tuition-free school for low income families established in March, 2006, honored it's staff, board members, and other volunteers for their dedication to helping those in need by using their resources to start up and sustain the preschool. Currently employed as a teacher, Ruth Smith joined the team very early on and worked voluntarily for nearly a year to open the preschool. Lucia Figueroa works as the Ark's bi-lingual teacher assistant. Both Smith and Figueroa dedicate long hours for the benefit of the children. Many of those hours are volunteered.

The Ark Preschool also honored their board of directors: Tim Hammons, Chairman; Joyce Jones, Vice Chair; Alana Witten, Secretary; Bruce Ahlquist, Treasurer; and Michele Aceves and Indira Lara, Members. These volunteers have given many hours guiding the preschool through its start up phase and providing outstanding on-going direction. Other honorees included Trudi Stover, a classroom helper and Christine Cunningham, a UC Davis Intern, both of whom volunteer between 4 and 12 hours every week. Nancy Hoffman, an LCSW, was appreciated for providing her services free of charge. Monty Daley, Chris Daley and Scott Daley were recognized for chairing fundraising events, donating a trike track, creating a garden, supporting field trips, providing computer maintenance, room enhancement and repairs. These dedicated individuals express delight and enthusiasm for serving children in need so that they might thrive in Kindergarten.

Winters Healthcare Foundation awarded seven individuals and two organizations. Dr. J. Fred Ransdell was a founding member of Winters Healthcare Foundation (WHF) in 2000. He remained a dedicated board member until retiring from the board in 2008. He provided an excellent perspective on the issues WHF dealt with as it grew from an organization with 4 staff and $100,000 to 20 staff members and 1.9 million dollars. In addition to dedicating his time, Ransdell donated thousands of dollars to WHF. Ransdell was appreciated by board and staff alike for his positive attitude, consistency, openness to change, common sense, and sense of humor.

Rebecca and Woody Fridae have generously supported Winters with their dollars and participation. Rebecca, on behalf of her father, Lee, donated $10,000 to pay for digital x-ray equipment used in WHF's beautiful dental office. Woody spent 6 months contributing to the development of WHFs five-year strategic plan. WHF has been very fortunate to have these two individuals in their community.

Gary and Anne Nooteboom have supported WHF financially almost since its inception in 2000. They have been WHF's most consistent donors contributing every month for the past 6 years.

John Wallner lives in Haines City, Florida and has never been to Winters. Wallner read about Winters Healthcare Foundation in a Time magazine article in 2000. He contacted WHF in 2001 to let them know that he believed in their mission and wanted to lend his support. He calls once a year to check in with WHF and says he likes their website as it helps him keep track of what is going on. Although he has never visited WHF, he has sent over $10,000 over the last 6 years.

JOAN HOGAN, a 'founding mother' of the Yolo Community Foundation, gets a hug from board member Michael Campbell

Donald McBride is WHFs largest donor. He lives in New Jersey and at the end of each year gives graciously to WHF. WHF has been thankful for McBride's consistency as well as his generosity. In the early days, his donation helped WHF make payroll. McBride has given more than $75,000 to WHF since its inception.

Yocha-De-He Community Fund (formerly known as the Rumsey Community Fund) has given more than $150,000 in grants to WHF since 2002. Their Executive Director, Karen Charney has worked with WHF for several years to support their mission. The Rumsey tribe provided seed money to start a diabetic group program. It started with a single group and now has 3 groups a month, two in Spanish and one in English. The diabetes program now also offers 3 weekly nutrition/cooking classes and 2 weekly exercise classes. Most recently, the Yocha-De-He Community Fund provided $100,000 over two years to help equip a 3-chair dental office adjacent to WHF's medical office. The dental office provides preventative care for children and care for adults, many of whom have never been to a dentist. The facility is state of the art with digital x-ray and highly trained staff. In the case of the dental office, the Yocha-De-He Community Fund has literally "put their money where their mouth is!"

The Davis Bike Club has contributed more than $2000 to WHF since 2002. Winters is a regular destination for weekday and weekend riders. BUSY WEEK FOR EMERGENCY RESPONSE

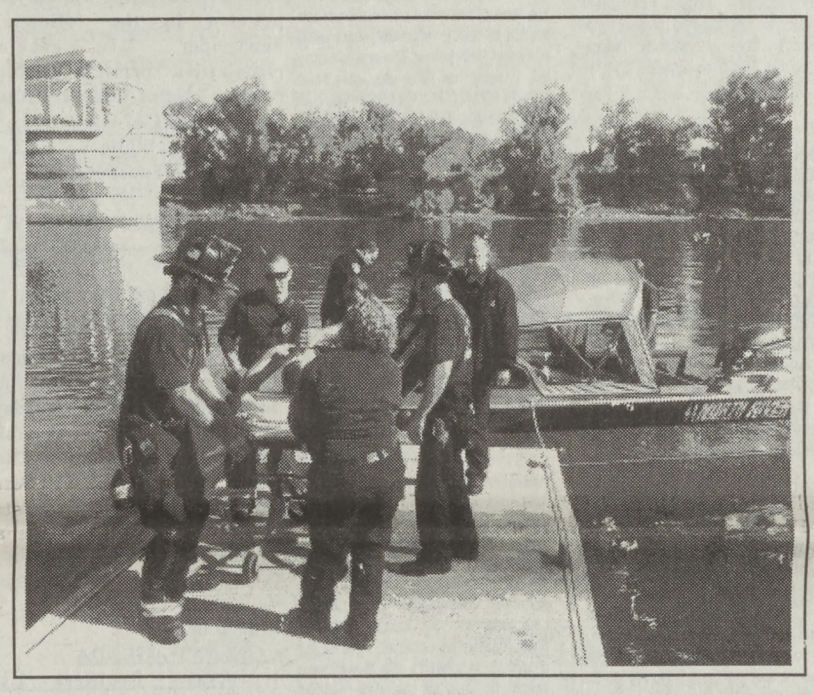
Fire department reports city's third traffic fatality in two weeks; condition of fourth man is unknown

The West Sacramento Fire Department reports a busy week:

On Nov. 10 at 9:23 p.m., units from several stations responded to a building fire at Tri-C Machine on Harbor Blvd. They extinguished the fire and used thermal imaging cameras to further inspect for fire extension and for ventilation, then helped with salvage. The fire was determined to have come from a smoldering molten ember created during on-site welding operations.

On Nov. 11, the fire department responded to a motorcycle accident that resulted in the city's third traffic fatality in only two weeks. At about 8:26 p.m., a van turned left in front of a motorcycle near Marshall Road and Otis Road, and the motorcycle rider was thrown into a power pole. A firefighter accompanied the victim in the ambulance, but the motorcyclist was pronounced dead shortly after arriving at the hospital. The driver of the van was arrested on DUI charges.

Shortly after noon on Nov. 12, the fire department's boat responded to the report of a vehicle in the water near the Broderick Boat Ramp. A 42-year old man apparently attempted to drown himself by driving his pickup truck into the river. He is reported to have made it to the hospital; further information was unavailable. After the incident, the fire boat, Sacramento police boat, Yolo County Sheriff's boat and U.S. Coast Guard all assisted the Diving Accident Rescue Team (DART) in sweeping the river downstream in a search for other possible victims. None were found. The vehicle was pulled out of the river.



Firefighters take a man to a waiting ambulance last Wednesday. The man drove his pickup truck into the Sacramento River -- possibly in an attempted suicide.

At about 8:30 p.m. on Nov. 7, firefighters at Station 42 (3585 Jefferson Blvd. in Southport) heard a vehicle accident in front of their station. Other units joined the response. A man was found to have been struck by a Honda Accord. He was unresponsive, with no pulse and was not breathing. Crew performed CPR. It was unknown how he fared.

• "Mineral oil will take off a fake tattoo nicely. Use it liberally on a cotton ball just before bath time. My kids love fake tattoos, and this way, they don't stay on too long." — T.L. in Montana

• "An easy way to store plastic grocery bags so that they are handy when you need them is to stuff them into a tissue box. They come out one at a time and are easily stored in a cabinet or even in your car." — P.W. in Missouri

• "I have one of those wax-melt burners that uses tea lights to heat a block of scented wax. I ran out of tea lights, but had one votive candle that I could use. I cut the bottom of the votive off to make it the right height, then I used a square of aluminum foil under it to catch the drippings. It worked just fine in a pinch." — D.S. in Florida

Dining for the dogs

A fundraiser to support West Sacramento's police dog teams raised about $5,500, reports Officer Roger Kinney. The event took place on Nov. 1 at the city hall galleria, with food donated by Vince's Restaurant and raffle prizes from a number of local businesses.

The money helps support the K-9 teams' participation in statewide competitions, and to pay for training in areas like narcotics and explosives work. Some of the money may also make its way from the West Sacramento K-9 Officers Association to charity – last year, the group gave $500 to help a six-year old suffering from a terminal illness in Auburn, and another $1,000 to the Collings West Sacramento Teen Center.

The fundraiser included a "meet and greet" with one police dog, "Zar."

The event was organized by dog-handling officers Dave Stallions, Geoff Albert and Roger Kinney, with help from Debbie Lugo and Ruth Pagano of the department's crime scene investigation unit and other police personnel.

Next year's fundraiser will include a full police dog demonstration, promises Officer Kinney.

Opinion

NEWS-LEDGER EDITORIAL:

Prediction: crime rate will increase

West Sacramento's crime rate has been dropping for years. That's a fact that several city councilmen reminded us about during the fall election campaign. They gave the City government and police department credit for this trend.

Partly, they're right.

But the crystal ball at the News-Ledger's predicts that the crime trend is about to reverse course.

The police and city leadership deserve some of the credit for the downturn in crime. But a couple of other big factors chipped in, too. For one thing, the economy has been doing well (until the past year or so), and crime generally drops when the economy is booming. And West Sacramento has experienced a housing boom in the first part of this decade. It added several thousand homes, mostly in the upper middle class range.

The building boom helped balance out West Sacramento's demographics. The city has long been known as a home to a lot of people who are struggling. And while not everyone who struggles for a living turns to crime, a fair number do.

West Sacramento's population has always included plenty of people on probation and parole, and plenty of people living "on the margins" in last-resort housing choices like some of the shadier motels. The new houses have added families on a higher part of the economic scale, and that helped reduce the rate of crime.

So why will the crime rate start to sneak back up? Consider these two reasons:

The housing boom has now stopped, freezing the city's demographics pretty much where they were last year. And the national economy is in the tank, meaning there are more people who are unemployed and otherwise desperate.

Watch for an unwelcome new crime trend.

And here's another prediction: when the crime trend was going in the right direction, it was easy to find the people who were responsible. When the trend goes the other way, it will be a bit harder.

Letters to the Editor

We need your help

Once again we reach out to the community to help the West Sacramento Christmas Basket Project provide a good holiday meal for those in need. This year is looking to be the most tremendous effort yet. So many folks are in dire need due to the down turn in our economy. Many have lost their jobs, homes, and hope. Let us be able to help our fellow West Sacramentans at least have a good nutritious meal this holiday.

For the past 36 years we have worked with various businesses, churches, service organizations and concerned individuals to provide this meal. In the past we have averaged 950 families, but it looks more like 1100 families will be calling on our services this year. Through the tireless efforts of volunteers, community partners and friends, our gifts have been applied 100% to those who need it most.

Please make a generous contribution now with a check made payable to West Sacramento Christmas Basket Project, PO Box 1236, West Sacramento, CA 95605. The monies will go first to filling the needs for food and any extra money will go to toys. Our partner this year in gathering toys is S&R Moving & Storage. Graciela Martinez is the contact person.

For additional information or to get a collection box for a business establishment, please call 372-3360. Thank you in advance.

Thanks

The Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, West Sacramento Post 8762, would like to thank Walgreens store manager Brian Trussell for his generosity. Each year, the West Sacramento VFW purchases and donates backpacks to needy school children in our community. Mr. Trussell sold the Post 40 backpacks at a significantly discounted price of $5 each. The VFW distributed 20 backpacks each to Southport and Bridgeway Island elementary schools. Mr. Trussell's generosity is greatly appreciated.

GARY REASON
Commander, VFW Post 8762

Hope to see you there

As presented by Bonnie Ratner tonight at the city council meeting convening at 7 pm, will be her report on the project she was hired to accomplish – us—the Bryte and Broderick Community Action Group. Yes, it is our official "coming out" during tonight's meeting. I hope to see as many of you there as is humanly possible to support Bonnie's excellent work and show the city that we are truly a significant force to be reckoned with, and not just some sort of window dressing.

Of course our group will always need to do significant follow up, with persistence on our part, in order to accomplish anything of any real magnitude for our community, but I'm certain that we'll not be discouraged nor dissuaded from seeing our collective vision born from conception to fruition. Afer all, "We are bigger than the walls that divide us" is more than just our motto – it is our way.

COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEWS

BY DNA SMITH

PICK OF THE WEEK

"Hancock" — Will Smith stars as Hancock, a superhero with amazing powers who's also a drunk and a jerk. After saving the life of a public-relations guy named Ray (Jason Bateman), Hancock allows the guy to help him with his image. Hilarity ensues — for a while. Then the film takes a weird direction with an odd subplot about amnesia and immortality and gods. "Hancock" isn't a horrible movie, and it's not super-great, either. But it's good enough to make it the movie pick of this week. The film is being released in both theatrical and unrated editions.

ALSO THIS WEEK

"Pink Panther Ultimate Collection" — Wow. This is one of the biggest box set collections I've seen: 18 discs. The first nine discs have nine of the 10 feature films ("Return of the Pink Panther" isn't included because MGM doesn't own the rights); the remaining nine discs have all the Pink Panther and Inspector Clouseau cartoons (more than 190).

COMEDY

"A Colbert Christmas: The Greatest Gift of All" — This is the DVD release of Colbert's one-hour Comedy Central holiday special featuring musical guests John Legend, Elvis Costello, Toby Keith, Willie Nelson and Feist. John Stewart makes an appearance to sing a duet with Colbert — an original song entitled "Hanukkah."

"George Carlin: It's Bad For Ya" — This is the late George Carlin's final HBO performance. Although this isn't George's best show, it is certainly his best set this decade. Special features include his 1969 appearance on "The Jackie Gleason Show" and selections from his 2007 three-hour interview for the Archive of American Television.

Q. Is the brown-haired sister-in-law of Jim in "According to Jim" any relation to Natalie Wood? — Carolyn K., via e-mail

A. Kimberly Williams-Paisley, 37, whose breakout role was in 1991's "Father of the Bride" opposite Steve Martin and Diane Keaton, plays Jim's sister-in-law, Dana. Kimberly is married to country superstar Brad Paisley, and together they have one son and recently announced they are expecting their second child in April 2009. Although they are both stunning brunettes, Kimberly is not related to the late Natalie Wood.

Q. I was wondering about the new movie, "The Day the Earth Stood Still," with Keanu Reeves. What can you tell me about it, and when will it be released? — Carrie G. in Canada

A. "The Day the Earth Stood Still," the 2008 remake of the 1951 classic sci-fi film about an alien visitor, Klaatu, and his giant robot counterpart, Gort, who visit Earth, will be released on Dec. 12. Keanu plays Klaatu, Jennifer Connelly is Helen Benson and Jaden Smith (Will Smith and Jada Pinkett Smith's son) is Jacob. For this go-'round, expect to see more of Helen and Jacob, a more sinister Klaatu and more onscreen carnage. However, the hopeful message of the original remains, along with the infamous quote: "Klaatu barada nikto."

Q. I loved watching Angela Lansbury in the "Murder She Wrote" series. I was wondering what she is doing now. I think she is a wonderful actress, and I would appreciate any information you might have on this great lady. — Josephine R., via e-mail

A. Angela Lansbury, 83, was born in London. She was married to actor Richard Cromwell in 1945 and divorced him the following year, although they remained good friends. In 1949, she married Peter Shaw, and together they had two children. Peter, an actor and businessman, was instrumental in guiding Angela's career. They had one of Hollywood's longest-lasting marriages, until his death in 2003.

Recently Angela returned to her Broadway roots (although it would be more accurate to say that she never left) to star in the play "Deuce," which ran from April through August 2007. Just this past month, Angela hosted "On Broadway! A Glittering Salute to the American Musical." True to form, Angela, an accomplished Broadway singer and dancer, quipped that now that she had new knees and new hips, she was perfectly able to keep dancing.

Q. What is Billy Joel doing, musically speaking? Has he retired after the Brinkley break-up? — H. P. in Vermont

A. Since his divorce from supermodel Christie Brinkley in 1994, Joel has been seemingly busier than ever. In 2004, he married culinary artist Katie Lee, who is 32 years his junior. The past few years, Billy has been touring extensively, and most recently completed the "Last Play at Shea" concerts, where he and several guest artists — including Paul McCartney, Tony Bennett and Don Henley — played two nights of sold-out shows at New York's Shea Stadium (with a total attendance of 125,000 people) before its demolition.

Hungry Planet
Photographed by Peter Menzel
Written by Faith D'Aluisio
(Ten Speed Press, $40)
Reviewed by Katy Olson

Some 275 miles north of the Arctic Circle, a family enjoys Greenlandic Seal Stew, prepared with the fresh seal they hunted the evening before. In Beijing, girls choose deep-fried scorpions and starfish as snacks from a stand, while in Chad, Sudanese refugees survive on rations that cost the equivalent of $1.23 per week. In telling these families' stories, the writer and photographer behind "Hungry Planet" visited 30 families in 24 countries, finding that though tastes and cultures diverge, one fact remains: Humans' relationship with food is a fascinating and delicate one.

The authors befriended families everywhere from Manila to Tingo and photographed them with a typical week's food. More than a photographic whirlwind, each portrait's accompanying, complementary stories help the Ahmed family's stack of vegetables, the Casales' rows of Coca-Cola and the Celik family's crusty loaves of bread to become meaningful and telling.

Peppered by culinary meditations and sprinkled with favorite recipes, "Hungry Planet" is not only a veritable snapshot of what the world eats, but, in its telling, becomes a study on what food itself represents throughout the world: sustenance, tradition, wellness.

The included statistics point out a stark reality: In the country where 37 percent of women are classified obese, a North Carolinian family spends $72 a week on fast food, while a 15-person household in Mali — a country in which 21 percent of the population is malnourished — spends a mere $26 total per week; Okinawa, Japan, where a naturally low-fat diet is traditionally preferred, is home to more centenarians than anywhere else on the globe. Still, the work manages to reveal certain truths about these families and their societies without employing politics; instead, their snapshots, statistics, stories and recipes speak for themselves.

Anyone fascinated by eating, preparing and sharing food will find in "Hungry Planet" a revealing masterpiece, an artful explosion of color and humanity.

the city, and 50 percent by the school district," Johnston said. "The competition pool will be paid 70 percent by the school district and 30 percent by the city. The maintenance and costs will likewise be split."

Parks department managers Andre Pichly and Kaisa Miller gave the News-Ledger a tour of the new facilities last week. The variety of offerings at the recreation center was impressive.

An exercise equipment was still waiting to be stocked. It would hold mostly cardiovascular equipment, with some strength training equipment as well.

Several pools were up and running – although the water was not heated yet.

There is a dance and aerobics room, and another for "kinesis."

"That's like standing up, doing 'pilates' with cables," explained Miller.

Some of the exercise rooms will see use for various programs like martial arts classes or dance.

"When people purchase a pass, they will have access to group exercise programs, whether it be pilates or kick-boxing," said Pichly. "There may be separate offerings not included in the pass, like karate, etc."

"Everything is all ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) compliant," added Lee Gunther, site superintendent for Turner Construction.

Gunther, Pichly and Miller showed off the locker room with showers and baby-changing stations. And they pointed out special "family" restrooms – a place where a parent can take a young child of the opposite sex to change and use the restroom without creating a conflict in either the "men's" or "women's facilities."

The pool area will see landscaping of a "tropical" flavor.

"We want this area to work as a destination for residents," said Pichly. "We want it to be very nice."

Next to the pools is a room that could be rented for social gatherings. And near that is a day care room – with a window near the floor so little tykes can watch the action on the rock climbing wall.

Centrally located is a reception area, where staff can keep track of who is coming and going.

"It won't be a drop-in facility," Pichly explained. "We'll have daily programs, but you will have to be in our system."

Fees are still being decided. The city council has told the parks department to keep them low, but not to undercut private gyms in town.

If the council approves a new fee structure in December, the department will start selling passes. Watch the city website at www.cityofwestsacramento.org for news. Most of the facilities will open in January, except the pools.

"We probably won't open the pool area up until May – unless it's a really hot spring," said Pichly.

The high school is scheduled to take over their campus and facilities at the site in the middle of their academic year, just after the winter break.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Nov. 28, 1582, playwright William Shakespeare, 18, and Anne Hathaway, 26, pay a 40-pound bond for their marriage license in Stratford-upon-Avon. By 1592, Shakespeare was well-established in London's theatrical world as an actor and playwright.

• On Nov. 30, 1886, the Folies Bergère in Paris introduces an elaborate revue featuring women in sensational costumes and quickly gains a reputation for its spectacular nude shows. The theater-staged revues featured as many as 40 sets, 1,000 costumes and a crew of some 200 people.

• On Nov. 26, 1922, in Egypt's Valley of the Kings, British archaeologists become the first to enter King Tutankhamen's tomb in more than 3,000 years. Inside Tutankhamen's sealed burial chambers was a collection of several thousand priceless objects, including a gold coffin containing the mummy of the teenage king.

• On Nov. 24, 1932, the first FBI crime lab officially opens in Washington, D.C. The lab, which was chosen because it had the necessary sink, operated out of a single room and had only one full-time employee, Agent Charles Appel, who began with a borrowed microscope.

• On Nov. 27, 1942, French Admiral Jean de Laborde sinks the French fleet to keep it out of German hands. Laborde ordered the sinking of two battle cruisers, four heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, one aircraft transport, 30 destroyers and 16 submarines.

• On Nov. 29, 1963, President Lyndon Johnson establishes a special commission to investigate the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. The Warren Commission report concluded that there was no conspiracy. However, in 1978, the House Select Committee on Assassinations concluded that Kennedy was "probably assassinated as a result of a conspiracy."

• On Nov. 25, 1980, Sugar Ray Leonard regains boxing's welterweight title when his opponent, reigning champion Roberto Duran, walks away from the fight in the eighth round. After the match, his doctor reported that Duran had eaten too much too quickly after the weigh-in and had a stomachache.

The lack of objectivity, as far as foreign nations are concerned, is notorious. From one day to another, another nation is made out to be utterly depraved and fiendish, while one's own nation stands for everything that is good and noble. Every action of the enemy is judged by one standard—every action of oneself by another. Even good deeds by the enemy are considered a sign of particular devilishness, meant to deceive us and the world, while our bad deeds are necessary and justified by our noble goals which they serve.
